Paintings and Works on Paper

EDITH NEWHALL

"He has no studio. Works anywhere, in this or that house, in his bed, often at night. [He paints only] a few times each year and for a few days, when it really 'overruns' him, he says, when it 'overwhelms' him; when his eyes 'catch fire.' " Thus wrote French poet Franck André Jamme of Acharya Vyakul, an Indian artist who died this past May and whose tantra-folk paintings Jamme "discovered" in Jaipur in 1988 and brought back to France. Now you can see them for yourself. (Lawrence Markey Gallery, 42 East 76th Street; September 7 to October 7.)
